Park Information:

Groton Open Space Association (GOSA) purchased this 63-acre, colonial-era farm on Hazelnut Hill Road in 2010 with the help of state and local grant programs, foundations and individuals. The property's outstanding historic sites and rugged natural setting make this an ideal outdoor classroom for school, college, and nature center programs. It features old foundations and a grist mill dam, colonial stone walls and boundary stone heaps noted on a 1754 deed, meadows, thickets, forest, rocky ridges, two waterfalls, Fort Hill Brook, and numerous vernal pools.
